gives exemption to licence holders in Form 28 from possession of Form 10 licence for Import of Scheduled C and C (1) drugs as they are actual users of the drugs. The question of extension of this exemption to lean licences in form 28-A had been examined and it was decided to give this exemption to lean licencees also from possessing Form 10 licence for import o fScheduled C and (C(1) drugs, pending amendment of Schedule D. The lean licencees are considered actual users, manufacturing drugs availing the facilities of a licencee in Form-28 and are defined as actual users in the Import Policy 1990—93. Thus drugs are released by the Port Officers to the actual users having licences in Form 28 as well as 28-A.

(b) Normally at the time of Import, the Port Officers record the details like the name of Importer, the name of the drug, the name of the manufacturer, Batch No. Quantity and C.I.F. Value but not whether the importer is holding licence in Form 28 or Form 28-A. Hence the information is not available.
